Krystal aka Princess of the Night, is one of Atlanta's premier DJ's and Club Promoters and frequently in the number one spot on any of the cities Top 10 lists.

She's a member of "LIVEGIRL," a group of women, hosts, promoters, fashion designers, and artists whose mission is to inspire others to live their dreams. They are also called upon for "the turn up" when it's time to get lit.

Krystal has perfected her snooping techniques over the years and says she can smell a lie before it's even uttered. She says, "if the puzzle pieces don't fit, just quit and suck it up as a learning experience!"

She doesn't like talking publicly about who she's dating, because of all the baby mama drama that seems to come out of the woodwork. She wishes women would be more supportive of each other instead of succumbing to the desperation of competition.

Krystal says she been cheated on numerous times, and now likes to keep it casual until she can do a thorough background check.

She proudly calls herself Inspector Gadget and is willing to teach other the proper methods for searching phone records, emails, texts and DM's. She said that if you don't look for the signs, it's your fault if he turns out to be married, a swinger, or gay.
